

Bromley Designs Sesquicentennial Logo

A logo created by Bromley Printing, Inc., Coon Rapids, has been chosen as the official logo for the 150th year celebration of Anoka County.

Bromley Printing, Inc. is a locally owned and operated printing, design, marketing and Web site company that has been working with Anoka County businesses for over 20 years.

"The logo gives a glimpse into life during the founding of our county in the mid- 1800s," said Elizabeth and Scott Bromley.

"Knowing that the right image would make all the difference, we put our design team to work for Anoka County.

"We were willing to donate our time hoping to be selected and ensuring that this celebration would have a logo proportionate to its growth and prosperity over the years."

According to the Bromleys, the logo is and will continue to be used for many different items throughout the Sesquicentennial celebration, including collector coins, books and calendars.

Elizabeth and Scott Bromley founded Bromley Printing in 1986.

"Over the years we have used our commitment to quality printing and personal service to help many companies increase their marketing efforts through printing and design services," the Bromleys said.

"With our 'Keep It Local...Keep It Simple' philosophy, Bromley Printing has worked with many local businesses, becoming their printing and marketing partner."
